AMBROSE AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Bert Ambrose directed what many connoisseurs, at the time and since, regarded as the finest British dance band. Among the many records it made for Brunswick, HMV, and Decca, the following stand out as being of considerable jazz interest. There may well be others of similar quality, despite unpromising titles.

AMBROSE AND HIS MAYFAIR ORCHESTRA: Bert Ambrose, vn, dir: Henry Levine, George Ratcliffe, t / Sam Acres, tb / Louis Martin, Jack Miranda, cl, as / Joe Crossman, ts / Sidney Lipton, vn / George Posnack, p / Lee Conna, bj / Dick Escott, bb / Harry Raderman, d. London, June, 1927.

NOTE: This band was also known as the LONDON ORCHESTRA when recording selections from musical shows and films, and after September, 1930, it was renamed ORPHEUS DANCE BAND. Titles of jazz interest will be found under both names.

ARC-BRUNSWICK STUDIO BANDS

A complete listing of sides made by the studio dance orchestras for Brunswick and Melotone (subsequently to become amalgamated with Banner, Conqueror, Pathé, Romeo, and other labels within the American Record Corporation), is given in The American Dance Band Discography. Reference to this will show how extraordinarily complicated the crediting of names was. A single session of four titles might produce issues labeled with a different band name each. Because many of these were bands that actually existed, but had little if anything to do with the orchestras heard on the records, it seems to be more suitable to list all the ARC "house" bands under the above heading, with reference to the names on the labels. The abbreviations used for these are as follows:

RB - Ralph Bennett and his Seven Aces (All Eleven of 'Em)
 BC - Bob Causer and his Cornellians (or sometimes his Orchestra)
 OF - Owen Fallon and his Californians
 SH - Sleepy Hall and his Collegians
 AK - Art Kahn's Orchestra
 EL - Ed L(loyd) and his Orchestra
 LPM - Les Peabody and his Memphis Ramblers

The records listed below are chosen from the enormous output by the house bands as containing at least one good jazz solo. They have been reported by reliable authorities, and many have been checked for the qualities ascribed to them. There may well be many others that have so far eluded even these vigilant collectors. Further recordings using similar pseudonyms or alter-egos were imade by such bands as Gene Kardos', Smith Ballew's, Victor Young's, and Dick Robertson's, and details will be found under these headings. Only a collective personnel can be given:

Bunny Berigan, Sterling Bose, Frank Guarente, Bob Effros, t / Tommy Dorsey, Charlie Butterfield, Jack Teagarden, tb / Jimmy Dorsey, Chester Hazlett, Sid Stoneburn, Arnold Brilhart cl, as, bar, etc. / Larry Binyon, Mutt Hayes, cl, ts, f, etc. / Joe Venuti, Harry Hoffman, Walter Edelstein, Lou Kosloff, vn / Joe Meresco, Arthur Schutt, p / Eddie Lang, Carl Kress, Dick McDonough, Perry Botkin, Tommy Feline, bj, g / Joe Tarto, bb, sb / Hank Stern, bb / Dick Cherwin, Artie Bernstein, sb / Stan King, Larry Gomar, d, vib, etc. / Smith Ballew (as ROSS COLBY) and others, v.

Some time during 1927, Louis Armstrong recorded fifty cornet solos on cylinders for the Melrose Music Publishing Co., to be transcribed and published in an album. Some years ago, there was a report that one of these, DOCTOR JAZZ, had been discovered, and that the band accompanying sounded very much like the Hot Seven. The whereabouts of this cylinder, if indeed it existed, and the name and address of its supposed owner are not known.

NOTE: For some reason, Parlophones R-3445 and R-2531 were issued as LOUIS ARMSTRONG AND HIS ORIGINAL WASHBOARD BEATERS, with "scat" vocal correctly attributed to Clarence Williams, q.v., whose Washboard

Four actually made these. The same name was also applied to BLACK AND TAN FANTASY by Duke Ellington and his Orchestra, q.v., on Parlophone R-3492, the backing of which (WILD MAN BLUES) is of course a genuine Armstrong. See also Jimmy Bertrand's Washboard Wizards (HJCA HC-39).

BAILEY'S LUCKY SEVEN

Although this recording band, directed by Sam Lanin, produced mainly commercial dance numbers, many of them were played with a strong jazz flavor, even the most unlikely looking titles featuring several hot solos. In view of this, and as the personnels included recognized jazz musicians, the entire output is given.

BEN BERNIE AND HIS HOTEL ROOSEVELT ORCHESTRA

One of the most famous bands in New York during the 1920s and 1930s, this unit made many records for Vocalion and Brunswick, of which those listed in the following pages are known to be of interest as hot dance music, despite the unlikely looking titles in some cases, and there may be others of similar merit.

Ben Bernie, vn, dir: Donald Bryan, ? Hymie Farberman, t / E. M. Caffrey, tb / 2cl, ss, as / cl, ts / J. Kenn Sisson, p, a / Paul Nito, bj / Harry Henson, bb / Sam Fink, d. New York, March, 1923.

BROADWAY BELL-HOPS

Several titles by this Sam Lanin orchestra feature brief solos by Red Nichols, t, and Miff Mole, tb. Most of their output does not warrant inclusion here, but a full survey is included in The American Dance Band Discography, 1917-1942. One issue, however, is of obviously much greater importance.

Sam Lanin dir: Bix Beiderbecke, c / Hymie Farberman, t / Bill Rank, tb / Don Murray, cl / Frank Trumbauer, Cm / Bobby Davis, as / Joe Venuti, vn / Frank Signorelli, p / John Cali, bj / Joe Tarto, bb / Vic Berton, d / Irving Kaufman, v. New York, September 29, 1927.

THE BROADWAY DANCE ORCHESTRA

Despite suggestions that at least some of the considerable number of sides by this band on Edison Diamond Discs between 1921 and 1925 are by an augmented Original Memphis Five, no positive evidence for or against is yet to hand. The following coupling is of somewhat greater interest as hot dance music than most under the name.

CHICK BULLOCK

Chick Bullock was among the most prolific of all American recording artists of the 1930s and early 1940s. The following chapter attempts to list all the records, excluding waltzes, issued under his name, as distinct from those dance bands with which he also sang. Not all are of equal jazz merit, but as complete a listing as possible is believed to be of greater use than a selective one, in view of the high proportion of jazz accompaniments among them. In preparing this chapter, I had the help of Chick Bullock himself, through the kindness and patience of a mutual friend, Peter Tanner. See also ARC-Brunswick studio bands.

CALIFORNIA RAMBLERS

This prolifically recorded dance orchestra was also known as the Golden Gate Orchestra on subsidiary labels such as Puritan (from Paramount) or Regal (from Emerson), and such items are marked* after the relevant catalogue number. Because all Edison Diamond Discs, Blue Amberol cylinders, Harmony, and Pathé records (and their associated labels) are always so described, however, they are not marked *. Records by the Five Birmingham Babies, the Goofus Five (and their Orchestra), the Vagabonds, the University Six, the Varsity Eight, and Ted Wallace and his Orchestra, which are substantially the California Ramblers, are shown under their own headings.

Lloyd Baker and another, t / Jim Gilliland, tb / Jimmy Duff, cl, as / as / ts / Preston Sargeant p / Ray Kitchingman, bj / Jose Torres, bb / Max MacIntosh, d; the unidentified t, as, and ts were played by William Borchers, Fred Conard, and Francis Longon, but it is not known who played what. From this point, Edison usually produced dual matrices at each selection, one vertically cut and the other lateral, which were recorded simultaneously. The 18000-19000 numbers were a continuation of the vertical-cut series, whereas the N-prefix numbers were allocated to the new lateral ("Needle-Cut") series.

The next three sessions, and those on January 30, March 3, March 26, and April 15, 1931, produced few sides issued as GOLDEN GATE ORCHESTRA, but they were recorded as Ed Kirkeby and his Orchestra, and a considerable number were composed by Fred van Eps, Jr., Lew Cobey, and Ed Kirkeby. It has not been possible to examine all of them, as they are extremely rare, and thus they are listed fully on the principle that even the most unpromising titles can contain excellent jazz solos, especially in view of the personnel.

Tommy Dorsey directed the next session, which produced only one title. The Victor files give us no clue to instrumentation, let alone personnel, other than Edythe Wright (Dorsey's vocalist at the time). It is likely, therefore, that the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra of that period was used in its entirety, making the personnel as follows: Tommy Dorsey, tb, dir: Andy Ferretti, Sterling Bose, Cliff Weston, t / Ben Pickering, Joe Ortolano, tb / Sid Stoneburn, cl, as / Noni Bernardi, as / Clyde Rounds, as, ts / Johnny van Eps, ts / Paul Mitchell, p / Mac Cheikes, g / Gene Traxler, sb / Sam Weiss, d / Edythe Wright (as JOAN HOPE), v. COLUMBIA BAND / ORCHESTRA

The following records by this prolific pioneer recording ensemble are of interest as contemporary accounts of rag-time and ragtime-influenced numbers. The approximate recording dates given are those of the original sessions; many masters were subsequently remade on the same matrix numbers, with higher take digits, on unknown dates. All are 10" unless noted; many are anonymous or take the label name as a pseudonym (e.g., STANDARD BAND).

The usual instrumentation was 2 c / 1 or 2 tb / cl / f / pic / ah / th / vn (on orchestra sessions) / p / bb / d, drawn from the following collective personnel: Charles A. Prince, p, dir: Bohumir Kryl, Emil Keneke, Walter B. Rogers, Vincent C. Buono, c / Leo Zimmerman, ___ Haynes, E. Stead, tb / Louis H. Christie, George McNeice, cl / George Schweinfest, pic, f / Marshall P. Lufsky, f / Charles D'Almaine, Walter Biederman, vn (on orchestra sessions) / Edward F. Rubsam, d, chimes.

Pseudonym on Australian Columbia for the following items in this book:

DO-565 Benny Goodman and his Orchestra
DO-576 Ben Selvin and his Orchestra

COLUMBIA NOVELTY ORCHESTRA

Usually the records of this studio band are of no jazz interest, but the following is rather an exception.

Probably: Hymie Farberman, t / Sam Lewis, tb / Sam Feinsmith, cl / Benny Krueger, as / p / bj / d / Billy Jones, v. New York, May 7, 1924.

RUSS COLUMBO

Although the late Russ Columbo directed his own orchestra as a backdrop for his very sentimental style of singing, and included in it Benny Goodman, cl / Joe Sullivan, p / Gene Krupa, d, the only record likely to interest the jazz collector from the few he made is the following, which does not include any of these in its personnel.

Vocal, acc. by ? Mike Mosiello, t / Jimmy Dorsey, cl / probably: Lou Raderman, vn / Milton Rettenberg, p / Carl Kress, g / Dick Cherwin, sb. New York, September 3, 1931.

CONWAY'S BAND

The following titles by this famous concert band are interesting not so much for the performances as for what is performed. For some time it was alleged, with no aural or documentary evidence whatsoever, that the soloist on SLIDUS TROMBONUS (Victor 18117) was the New Orleans jazz trombonist Calvin "Zue" Robertson, whereas it was in fact Charles Randall, and of no interest as ragtime or jazz.

According to Jazz Information on November 14, 1939, ten sides were cut during this session; the other three were probably undocumented tests. The difference in the numerical sequence of the matrix numbers between the first three and the last four sides is due to the use of two studios. The title of 26239-A on Par R-2974 is FOUR DAYS CREEP. Alternative versions of most 1939 titles have been reissued on LP, including previously unissued titles.

WILLIE CREAGER AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Rumor persists that Willie Creager's band recorded with Bix Beiderbecke when both were playing in the Cinderella Ballroom, New York, in the autumn of 1924. Be that as it may, the following from the enormous number made by his band between 1923 and 1930 are of jazz interest, although little is known regarding the personnel. It should not be assumed that other titles, even those made at any of the following sessions, are of the same outstanding quality.

BING CROSBY

This tremendously popular vocalist was an avowed jazz enthusiast and insisted his accompanists include the late Eddie Lang, g, right up to the day of Lang's death. Although Lang, the Dorsey Brothers, and other jazz stars of the early 1930s played on many of Bing's records of that time, few were featured extensively; but as might be expected, a fair number of sides recorded by the Old Groaner, as he was affectionately known, in his half-century as a recording artist, are of interest as jazz, and these are listed below.

Vocal, acc. by the Mills Brothers (q.v. for personnel) / Frank Guarente, t / Will Bradley, tb / Les Dreyer, Bennie Krueger, as / Max Farley, ts / Fred Glickman, Max Solowsky, vn / Joe Meresco, p / Eddie Lang, g / Hank Stern, bb / Larry Gomar, d. New York, December 16, 1931.

MEYER DAVIS' SWANEE SYNCOPATORS

Meyer Davis' career extended over half a century, but few of his products are of interest as jazz. However, the following titles, recorded by Brunswick for the British market, are exceptional. The Brunswick files show a date only for the last session; Davis' only contribution was probably to arrange the sessions.

Probably Mickey Bloom, Fuzzy Farrar, t / Tommy Dorsey, tb / Jimmy Dorsey, cl, as / Arnold Brilhart, as / Babe Russin, ts / vn (some titles) / Frank Signorelli, p / Perry Botkin, bj / Joe Tarto, sb / Chauncey Morehouse, d / Scrappy Lambert, Smith Ballew, and another, v. New York, c. November, 1928.

DENZA DANCE BAND

This name was chosen in 1925 by Herbert C. Ridout, publicity manager of the Columbia Graphophone Company in London, to mask the identities of American dance bands whose first electric recordings it was desired to issue without public announcement of the new recording technique. (Ted Lewis, in London at the time and easily recognizable anyway, was not renamed.) Sides containing jazz solos, or included in this book for completeness, are as follows:

- 3673 Charleston Baby O' Mine (The Georgians)
- 3714 Steppin' In Society (The Knickerbockers; see Ben Selvin)
- 3715 Both sides by Lanin's Red Heads
- 3717 Sweet Georgia Brown (California Ramblers)
- 3730 Yes, Sir! That's My Baby (Ace Brigode and his Fourteen Virginians)
- 3730 Ukulele Lady (Harry Reser's Syncopators)
- 3743 Row, Row, Rosie (Earl Gresh's Gangplank Orchestra)
- 3754 If I Had A Girl Like You (Sam Lanin and his Roseland Orchestra)
- 3782 I'm Tired Of Everything But You (Ace Brigode and his Fourteen Virginians)
- 3782 Oh Boy! What A Girl! (Ross Gorman's Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 3783 Sonya (Yup, Alay Yup!) (California Ramblers)
- 3783 Got No Time (The Little Ramblers)
- 3819 Want A Little Lovin' (Ross Gorman and his Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 3827 Somebody's Crazy About You (Ross Gorman and his Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 3828 Moon Dear [sic] (California Ramblers)
- 3862 I'm Sitting On Top Of The World (Ross Gorman and his Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 3913 Sleepy-Time Gal (Ross Gorman and his Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 3917 Then I'll Be Happy (California Ramblers)
- 3917 Say! Who Is That Baby Doll? (Ipana Troubadours)
- 3933 I Never Knew (Ross Gorman's Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 3934 Spanish Shawl (The Georgians)
- 3958 Rhythm Of The Day (Ross Gorman's Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 3959 Smile A Little Bit (California Ramblers)
- 3959 You Told Me To Go (The Knickerbockers; see Ben Selvin)
- 3962 Say It Again (Harry Reser's Syncopators)
- 4022 No Foolin' (California Ramblers)
- 4046 No More Worryin' (Ross Gorman and his Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 4047 Both sides by Ross Gorman and his Earl Carroll Orchestra
- 4048 Let's Talk About My Sweetie (Paul Ash and his Orchestra)
- 4048 Tomorrow Morning (California Ramblers)
- 4068 So Is Your Old Lady (Warner's Seven Aces)
- 4093 Cherie, I Love You (Ross Gorman and his Earl Carroll Orchestra)
- 4095 Both sides by the California Ramblers
- 4096 I Wonder What's Become Of Joe? (The Little Ramblers)

4133	Me Too (California Ramblers)
4134	Do You Believe In Dreams? (Francis Craig and his Orchestra)
4179	Oh! If I Only Had You (Paul Ash and his Orchestra)
4180	Lookin At The World Thru' Rose-Colored Glasses (Paul Ash and his Orchestra)
4180	Trudy (Fred Rich and his Orchestra)
4206	I Just Wanna Be Known As "Susie's Feller" (Harry Reser's Syncopators)
4248	Katinka (Fred Rich and his Orchestra)

This name was used similarly on Australian Columbia issues, as follows:

0554	Tenderly (Earl Gresh and his Gangplank Orchestra)
0568	Smile A Little Bit (California Ramblers)
0590	The Girl Friend (California Ramblers)
641	Both sides by Al Handler's Orchestra)
0658	Song Of The Wanderer (Earl Burnett and his Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel Orchestra)
0680	Both sides by Fred Rich and his Orchestra

0818	There's Everything Nice About You (Warner's Seven Aces)
0835	Lazy Weather (California Ramblers)
0836	My Blue Heaven (Don Voorhees and his Orchestra)
0854	Both sides by Cass Hag and and his Hotel Manger Orchestra)
0864	The Girl Friend (California Ramblers)
0864	The Blue Room (Fred Rich and his Hotel Astor Orchestra)
0889	Both sides by Don Voorhees and his Orchestra
0920	Someday, Sweetheart (The Charleston Chasers)
0946	Make My Cot Where The Cot-Cot-Cotton Grows (California Ramblers)
0946	Dear, On A Night Like This (Cass Hagan and his Hotel Manger Orchestra)
01129	Chloe (Tracy-Brown's Orchestra)
01151	Dance Of The Blue Danube (Emerson Gill and his Bamboo Garden Orchestra)
01151	The Varsity Drag (Cass Hagan and his Hotel Manger Orchestra)
01189	Adoree (California Ramblers)

The following Australian Regals, of somewhat later date than the forgoing, were also issued under this name:

G-20902	You're Simply Delish (Smith Bellew and his Orchestra)
G-20902	My Man From Caroline (Ben Selvin and his Orchestra)
G-20961	The Peanut Vendor (California Ramblers)

DETROIT MELODISTS

The following record sounds incredibly advanced for a native British group of the time. It is an English recording, not apparently made by the Aco Vocalion combine, yet it was issued on two labels that normally drew on that repertoire. The same title on their sister labels, such as Guardsman, is from Aco, and is of no jazz interest.

EDITH EVANS

This is not the English dramatic actress of the same name, but an American vaudeville singer of the late 1920s. The following of her records have quite interesting jazz-oriented accompaniments.

REDD EVANS AND HIS BILLY BOYS

As might be expected from the sobriquet above, this was a country-music group (it made some similar records for Victor as LEWIS "RED" EVANS AND THE BOYS and for Bluebird as THE "BAMA" BOYS in 1938), but the following warrant inclusion here because several jazz notables sat in on this session.

Lewis Evans, v, dir: Willie Kelly, t / Floyd Brady, tb / Reggie Merrill, as / Clark Galehouse, ts / Teddy Wilson, p / Al Casey, g / Al Hall, sb / Cozy Cole, d. It is thought that "Hot Sweet Potato," v, is one of the band. New York, August 11, 1939.

CARL FENTON AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Carl Fenton originally was pseudonym for Brunswick musical director Gus Haenschen, who subcontracted the "Fenton" sessions to various free-lance musicians and orchestras, most often those of Bennie Krueger and Harry Reser. The Fenton name was later licensed by Reser's violinist, Rubie Greenberg, for use on labels others than Brunswick. The following from the prodigious output issued under this fictitious name are of some interest as jazz or hot dance music.

ARTHUR FIELDS

Arthur Fields (real name Abe Finkelstein) was a much-recorded vocalist in New York during the inter-war years. He was the song-writing and publishing partner of Fred Hall, q.v., with whose orchestra he performed as vocalist in the later 1920s. They may accompany him on the following, although the Edison files do not credit Hall's orchestra. The instrumental work is of some interest as jazz.

ARTHUR FIELDS AND HIS ASSASSINATORS: Possibly Jack Mollick, t / Eddie Grosso, cl, as / Philip d'Arcy, h, vn, p, w / Fred Hall, p / Albert Russo, bj / Al Morse, bb / Joseph Mayo, d / Arthur Fields, v. New York, October 20, 1927.

BERT FIRMAN

As musical director for Zonophone records from 1924 to 1928, Bert Firman was responsible for the entire output of British dance records on that label. His own work was issued under his name, and that of the Cabaret Novelty Orchestra, the Carlton Hotel Dance Orchestra, the Arcadians Dance Orchestra, the Devonshire Restaurant Dance Band, and the Rhythmic Eight. Many of these were first-class jazz or hot dance-band records, and those issued as the Arcadians Dance Orchestra, the Devonshire Restaurant Dance Band, and the Rhythmic Eight are listed under those names. The remainder that are of jazz interest are shown below; the initials of the names on the labels are given in parentheses after the catalogue numbers.

Bert Firman, vn, dir: Max Goldberg, Vernon Ferry, t / Ted Heath, tb / Herb Finney, cl, as / Arthur Lally, cl, as, bar / ? Bill Barton, ts / Cecil Norman and sometimes John Firman, p / Joe Brannelly, bj, g / ? Billy Bell, bb / Harry Robbins, d, x, vib. Hayes, Middlesex, July 10, 1925.

14 TROMBONIERS

Close examination of this band's only known record reveals at most six trombones, with some kind of brass bass, a cymbal (perhaps two) and a snare drum. The four or five others needed to make fourteen could perhaps be an assortment of horns just audible when the maelstrom of trombone work abates briefly at one point. The sides are included here as examples of ragtime music rendered by a brass band during the heyday of its popularity.

About this time, Bud Freeman recorded a parody on Noël Coward's play Private Lives under the name Private Jives, (Commodore C-50), Freeman playing Coward's part, and Minerva Pious playing Gertrude Lawrence's. Everett Sloane provided the commentary, while the piano and trumpet interludes were played by Joe Bushkin, but there is no jazz.

Owing to protests from Decca Records that the use of Ella Fitzgerald was a breach of contract with them, these were withdrawn, and 25461 was reissued, coupling 02459-1 with a new recording of GOODNIGHT, MY LOVE (matrix 04235-1; see January 14, 1937). The latter was then coupled with 02463-1, still with Ella Fitzgerald, but Victor 25469, once withdrawn, was never reused. Matrix 02462 is not by the Benny Goodman Orchestra.

At this point, some acetate recordings were made from two broadcasts from the Hotel Pennsylvania's Manhattan Room in New York on October 13 and 16, 1937. These were issued without labels or any other identifying marks on red-vinylite LPs during the 1950s, in a very private limited edition. As they do not qualify as commercial issues, it is not felt they need be listed here in detail, but D. R. Connor's book BG on the Record gives all the known facts about them.

From this point on, the records of the Goofus Five were issued in Great Britain on the more expensive purple Parlophone R series, under the name of THE GOOFUS WASHBOARDS, although at no time was a washboard used. The one exception to this was Parlophone R-108, which was issued as by the Goofus Five. Parlophone R-3490, labeled ADRIAN ROLLINI AND THE GOOFUS WASHBOARDS, did not in fact include Adrian Rollini in the personnel of one side at all.

GOTTLIEB'S ORCHESTRA

The following, described as "personally conducted by Herr Gottlieb," are of interest as early examples of recorded orchestral ragtime as played in England before World War I, albeit by British musicians under a German conductor. Hilton Schleman, in Rhythm on Record, claimed that the pianist was an Italian named Budmani, but no piano is audible on the records, the instrumentation being probably 2 c / tb (? 2 tb) / cl / f / pic / vn (? 2 vn) / bb / d. GREY GULL STUDIO BANDS

Grey Gull Records, headquartered in Boston with studios in New York, used a fairly stable roster of musicians for its house orchestra, like most recording companies of the time. On both parent and subsidiary labels (Madison, Radiex, Supreme, Van Dyke, inter alia), pseudonyms were the rule, often differing across labels. Occasionally there were even anonymous issues. To further complicate life, the same recording under a different title, catalog number, and band credit occasionally was re-pressed on the same label. For records issued outside the United States, there is yet another array of pseudonyms. To simplify, Grey Gull dance records by this "house band" contingent are listed here if they offer something to interest the jazz collector and if they do not belong to a distinctly identifiable group which played and recorded in venues other than the Grey Gull studios. The artist credit, if any, is shown after each individual catalog number.

This was also a pseudonym on acoustic English Columbia for the following items listed in this book:

- 3592 I Want To Be Happy (California Ramblers, if the copy has a small run-off groove linking the end of the track with an inner locked groove. If there is no such linking spiral, the recording is English, by the Stan Greening band referred to above, and in this case of no jazz interest).
- 3600 Oh! Mabel (California Ramblers)
- 3615 Take A Little One-Step (California Ramblers)
- 3669 King Porter Stomp (Lanin's Red Heads)
- 3717 Original Two-Time Man (Cotton Club Orchestra)

At this point, Annette Hanshaw began recording under her own name for Columbia and Okeh, and for Columbia's low-priced labels (Harmony, Clarion, Diva, and Velvet Tone) also, most of the latter being credited to GAY ELLIS for the sentimental numbers, and DOT DARE or PATSY YOUNG for the lifelike impersonations of Helen Kane, who reportedly expressed admiration when she heard them.

THE HAPPY HOUR ORCHESTRA

Pseudonym on Okeh, Parlophone, and Perfect for Fred Rich and his Orchestra, q.v.

THE HAPPY SIX

Harry A. Yerkes directed this group for Columbia Records in New York between 1919 and 1923. When touring with the Marx Brothers, they were increased to nine, and indeed several of their many records are by more than six musicians. Most of them are straight dance records with slight jazz overtones, but those included here are generally of somewhat more interesting performances in a rudimentary jazz style.

HORACE HEIDT'S ORCHESTRA

The following records are known to be of some interest as jazz for their solo work. Bobby Hackett, c, was a member of the band from the end of 1939 until the summer of 1941, but he does not seem to have contributed any solos of great length to any of the Columbia records made during that time.

Leroy Shield dir: Warren Lewis, Jerry Bowne, t, v / Paul Know, tb / Clarence Moore, cl, ss, as bar, vn / Dave Phennig, cl, ss, as, vn / Harold Plummer, cl, ss, as, ts, bar / Harold Moore, Lee Lykins, cl, ss, as, ts, bar, vn, v / Charles Midgley, p / Charles Bradshaw, bj, v / Art Thorsen, bb, sb / Lee Fleming, d. There is a half chorus of hot harmonica on the first side, but it is not known who plays it; the Victor files show the instrumentation as 2 c / tb / 3s / 2 vn / p / bj / bb / sb / d, but as all the five reedmen except Plummer also play violin, the 3s / 2 vn part could have been made up of any or all at any time. THE SOUTHERN SERENADERS: Although a certain amount of controversy still centers around the products of this session issued under this name, the Columbia files bear an obliterated artist credit to what looks like FLETCHER HENDERSON AND HIS ORCHESTRA, the above pseudonym written in above. Had this been a Sam Lanin session, as Walter C. Allen and other authorities contended, surely his name would have been entered, even if it had subsequently been obliterated also. A record date by a collaboration of Henderson and Lanin musicians is dimly remembered by some of each (and vigorously denied by others), according to various collectors who interviewed them, although such a collaboration is unlikely as long ago as 1925. In view of the evidence on the Columbia file card and the sound of the sides themselves, I am prepared to accept the assertion of Louis Armstrong and Don Redman that the band responsible was Henderson's, with white vocalist Billy Jones added for one side. ART HICKMAN

Art Hickman, one of the first dance band leaders to use the kind of arrangements and instrumentation that became more or less the standard format of dance music between the World Wars, made few records likely to interest the jazz collector. The following, while appearing under his name, were not made under his direction.

ART HICKMAN'S NEW YORK LONDON FIVE: Clarence Gransie, t / Keith Pitman, tb / Jack Howard, as / George Fishberg, p / George Klein, d.
